

Waqf can be given through money, property, land or other Shariah-eligible assets. All Waqf funds are managed in accordance with Shariah principles and JMIC's Waqf Policy, with oversight from the Board of Trustees and qualified scholars. Every contributor will receive a Waqfnama recognising their Waqf.

MASJID WAQF FUND

EVERY GENERATION IS REMEMBERED
FOR WHAT IT
LEAVES BEHIND.

But the most honoured generation is the one that leaves

A LEGACY

This Masjid was built through the sacrifices of those who came before us.

For more than five decades, Jami Mosque & Islamic Centre has been supported by the generosity, commitment and sacrifice of our community.

Today, every one of us is a custodian of JMIC — trustee or musalli, staff or volunteer, donor or well-wisher.

Now, history asks the same question of us:

What will we leave for those who come after us

Will the next generation inherit a Masjid that struggles every year to meet its basic running costs? Or will they inherit one that is financially secure, independent and able to serve its community with confidence for generations to come?

This is why Waqf matters.

WHAT IS WAQF?

Capital Protected Forever

The gift is never spent. It remains part of the Waqf, permanently.

Income Flows Every Year

The Waqf is invested, and its income serves the Masjid year after year.

One of the most powerful forms of ongoing reward — benefit that continues long after we are gone.

TODAY'S REALITY

Every year, our Masjid needs around £200,000 just to keep things running. This covers utilities, staff, maintenance, security and the many day-to-day costs of serving our community.

Now imagine a £3 million Waqf generating that income every year — not just for today, but for our children, our grandchildren and generations to come.

OUR GOAL

£500,000

Waqf Fund target, within 2 years

Covers 50% of the Masjid's utility costs — permanently.

HOW WAQF INVESTMENT WORKS?

When you give something as Waqf — money, property, land or another valuable asset — the original gift remains part of the Waqf and is not spent. It is invested in a Shariah-compliant way, and the income it generates is used to support the Masjid year after year.

*All investments are Shariah-compliant, carefully managed and governed by JMIC's Waqf Policy.
